The journal accepts submissions in English and Urdu languages. Presently, JWR is bi-annually but soon the journal will be converted to quarterly. If you are considering submitting an article to the Journal, please take careful notice of the Journal's requirements regarding its scope, objectives, reference style, format, etc.

Aims and Objectives:

Journal of World Researches (JWR) has the following aims/Objectives:

- To encourage advanced scholarly research on "contemporary situations/issues" of the modern era.
- To welcomes academic researchers to get their writings published in all domains of social sciences especially "multidisciplinary collaborative approach".
- To publish articles after a blind peer-review process, which is carried out by leading specialists in social sciences areas of interest that have close associations with "contemporary world research".
- To develop diversity, tolerance, and fruitful scholarly discussions and research.
- JWR also welcomes scholars around the world to publish their worthy research on its platform without any ethnic, geographical, or religious discrimination.

Editorial Process:

Journal of World Researches (JWR) follows a systematic review and publication policy. It follows a double-blind peer review policy. The article is sent to two "internationally recognized reviewers" who are experts in the concerned respective field to review the paper in light of the journal's guidelines and features of a quality research paper. If the reviewers suggest any changes, the same suggestions are forwarded to the authors to ensure the quality of the articles and after that, revised articles are accepted for further copyediting and publication process.

The publication process is as follows:

- The submitted manuscript is acknowledged within 24 hours upon receipt through the automatically generated response of OJS.
- The manuscript/paper is sent to two reviewers without the name and affiliations of the author(s). The review process takes about four weeks.
- The review reports are collected from the reviewers and the Managing Editor sends the review reports to the authors including all terms and conditions of the publication.

- If the paper is accepted, the Managing Editor sends a positive response to the authors. If the paper is accepted subject to modification, the Managing Editor will send the review reports to the authors including a formal request to modify the paper by seven days as per the suggestions of the reviewers. The corresponding author sends the modified paper to the same Managing Editor and the editor forwards it again to the concerned reviewers of the said paper to justify the modifications. If the paper fails to satisfy the reviewers this time also, then the article is said to be finally rejected. The journal does not proceed with the said paper. However, in case of minor changes, the editor-in-chief may consider the paper for further modifications on the recommendation of the Managing Editor.
- The accepted paper is processed for publication upon the successful completion of the journal's terms and conditions. The acceptance letter is issued within five days after the acceptance of the article and fulfillment of all journal's requirements.
- Proofreading: Before publishing the processed article, the editor asks the author for any final proofreading, if not, the paper is forwarded to the copyeditor. After copyediting as per the format of JWR, the paper is forwarded to the editor for publication.
- The paper is published online first. The editor-in-chief will notify the authors about the online publication with the necessary download link. The authors may request any correction in the published paper (in case of extremely important changes) within three days of online publication.
- The journal is published in print form within two weeks after the online publication.
